"Some people can care for themselves, but others rely on the senior center for daily meals...It's very helpful to the senior citizens. I really appreciate what you bring."

"Thank you for sending [supplies]. It was greatly appreciated; it's extremely helpful. With the cost nowadays, I'm really grateful we do get donated stuff."

- Kodene One Skunk

"A lot of Native people, especially the elderly – their own families don't tend to help them. It gets hard, especially if they're living alone. These boxes are a big help. To some people, it might not be a lot, but for people who are struggling to get what they need, it really is a lot. Even when we receive the simplest things, it helps. We're content with anything."

- Raymond Garcia

Service Spotlight

During the hot summer months when the heat can threaten Native Elders, the Summer Emergency Box Service ensures that food and other critical supplies are readily available. Working with Program Partners such as Elders Nutrition Centers, we provide emergency supplies that they can deliver to Elders in their community. Essentials may include items such as cooling blankets, flashlights, batteries, non-perishable food, and water.

Thank You!

We're so grateful for your ongoing support and friendship — it means the world to us. These numbers are just a glimpse of what your generosity has made possible. Because of you, Elders, children, families, and even animals on remote Native American reservations are finding hope and help when they need it most.
